BIO

Kristin Wetherington is a New York City-based performer, originally from Greenville North Carolina. Her voice has been heard all over the world in some of the largest theaters and arenas. As a vocalist, she has shared the stage with stars like pop sensation Tori Kelly and country music star Phil Vassar. She has appeared with some of the country's top symphonies including the Philadelphia Pops, on National Television like Fox and Friends and has sang the national anthem for professional sporting events including Major League baseball and the National Hockey League. With a professional career spanning over 15 years, Kristin is a three time Broadway World Award and SALT Award winner for her performance as Lucille in Parade with critically acclaimed regional theatre, The Rev. Some of her favorite theatrical credits include the Broadway tour of Aida, Off-Broadway's Calamity Jane (Calamity), Louisiana Purchase (Beatrice). Broadway World says, "her well-trained voice shines" and that she "alone is worth the price of admission" while the New York Times and Theatre Mania says she "delivers" and "unleashes a powerful soprano". Kristin holds a Master's of Fine Arts Degree from Harvard University and when she is not performing runs her own coaching and production company.
